In-Services, Workshops, & Learning Communities

PSU Extension

These are in-services and workshops conducted since January 2000 within Pennsylvania. These in-services and workshops were conducted for one of three target audiences: 4-H youth development and/or Family and Consumer Science educators/agents; professionals in education, human services, and/or non-profits; and parents and/or youth. In-services and workshops are grouped by topical area.

Collaboration

This topic involved increasing knowledge about effective collaboration and partnership on behalf of children, youth, and families. Forty in-services and workshops were conducted with more than 75% being 3 or more hours in length. Of the 226 in-services and workshops, 91 were conducted with Extension educators, and 135 were conducted with professionals in education, human services, and/or non-profits. The total number of participants was 1,987.

Family Development

This topic involved increasing knowledge about positive parenting techniques and family development. Thirty-three in-services and workshops were conducted with more than a third being 2 or more hours in length. Of the 48 in-services and workshops, 19 were conducted with Extension educators; 29 were conducted with professionals in education, human services, and/or non-profits; and 6 were conducted with parents. The total number of participants was 1,806.

Youth Development

This topic involved increasing knowledge about positive and community youth development framework and its application. Seventy-five in-services and workshops were conducted with more than half being 2 or more hours in length. Of the 89 in-services and workshops, 39 were conducted with Extension educators; 29 were conducted with professionals in education, human services, and/or non-profits; and 15 were conducted with parents and/or youth. The total number of participants was 3,478.
